

The Natural Family Festival is a positive, uplifting celebration of the family. It's an opportunity to connect children with their parents, parents with their children, grandparents with their children and grandchildren in substantial, meaningful, hands-on ways. It's a community event that draws families together, in ways they may not have experienced in a very long time. It gets kids back to being kids — away from the harmful influences of pop culture, social media and electronics. An opportunity for our oldest generations to connect with the youngest generations, for Dads and Moms to bond with their kids and for kids to learn to VALUE, respect and honor their parents, grandparents and elders. It's a chance for families to BUILD something significant, and strengthen the community at large.
